

H■MI — Frequently Asked Questions

Educational guidance only · homitechnology.com

What is H■MI?

H■MI is a Decision Companion for Decision Readiness Intelligence™. It helps you explore whether you will be okay after a financial commitment — not whether a lender would approve you.

What problem does it solve?

Most tools optimize for access (“can you get it?”). People still feel pressure, shame, and timing risk. H■MI focuses on readiness: numbers, emotional truth, and timing — with anti-shame framing.

How does it work?

You explore readiness through three lenses: 1. Financial Reality 2. Emotional Truth 3. Perfect Timing Outputs are educational. They are not bank decisions.

Is H■MI a credit score?

No. H■MI answers a different question: readiness. It does not replace credit scores or credit bureaus.

Is H■MI a lender or mortgage broker?

No. H■MI is not a lender, broker, realtor, RIA, or product marketplace. There is no “our lenders” funnel.

Is this financial advice?

No. H■MI provides educational guidance only. It is not financial, legal, tax, or investment advice. Consult qualified professionals when you need them.

Will H■MI tell me I’m “approved”?

No. We do not use approval / pre-qualification language. Favorable readiness is not a lending decision.

What does “Build First” or “Not yet” mean?

They mean clarity and protection — not personal failure. Build First is a map of next constructive steps.

Who is it for?

People facing meaningful financial decisions who want calm clarity before a hard-to-undo commitment. Home is a wedge; the vision is readiness for financial decisions more broadly.

Who is it not for?

Anyone seeking a loan offer, rate shopping from H■MI, or a guarantee. We don't do that.

How do you make money?

[ADD accurate pricing model when publishing — e.g. subscription tiers. Do not invent.]

Is my data safe?

We take privacy and security seriously. See the site privacy policy. (Avoid “bank-level / military-grade” claims.)
